Australia is here

The annual IDP Roadshow is bringing 18 Australian educational institutions to Dubai and Abu Dhabi next month. Rema Menon has the details.

Twelfth graders who have just completed their board exams, others who are sitting their exams in June, 11th graders who are exploring educational options, students who wish to pursue a masters or a Ph.D., professionals who want to retrain or re-evaluate — if you fall into any of these categories and have Australia as an educational destination in mind, then the IDP Roadshow is sure to prove beneficial.

The exhibition will be held in Dubai on April 3 and in Abu Dhabi on April 4. The timings are from 9-9pm.

Visitors can meet representatives from 18 Australian institutions and discuss admission requirements, course content and any other queries and concerns.

Those of you who haven't yet decided on your next step might find the fair helpful in making choices and decisions.

Do your homework

To facilitate your research before the event, Notes has compiled a list of websites of participating institutions. We urge you to do your homework by visiting the sites, short-listing potential institutions and courses so that you are prepared with your questions when you meet university representatives.

Good luck!
